

April 22, 2009
Contact: Eric Wohlleber
242-7002

Law Firm Honors Administrative Professionals
Dedicated group represents more than 181 years of experience

TROY – The E. Stewart Jones Law Firm will honor twelve staffers with a unique gift on Administrative Professionals Day on April 22, 2009. Each of the firm’s administrative professionals will be treated to a catered lunch at the firm and five hours of paid time off to support a non-profit organization of their choice. In addition, one lucky employee will receive $1,000 to be donated to a charity of their choice.

“We have been extremely fortunate at our firm to have not only the best and brightest, but also an extremely dedicated staff,” said E. Stewart Jones. “In keeping with our goals of giving back to the community, we felt that this would not only show how appreciative we are of our staff, but would also help a worthy cause.”

In all, the firm employs twelve administrative professionals who combine to represent more than 180 years of experience. The longest tenured employees are Catherine Sibley (38 years), Carol Bessette (33 years) and Lois Johnson (26 years). The firm’s newest employee is Tracy Whitford, who was hired two months ago.

“The longevity of our employees is a testament to our friendly and professional work environment,” said Kimberly Sanger Jones, office manager, who has been with the firm for 19 years. “This is a wonderful opportunity to take a moment out of our busy schedules to recognize their devotion to the firm and our clients.”

The E. Stewart Jones Law Firm, PLLC, of Troy has been recognized for its success in personal injury law and criminal law, and for its exceptional results on behalf of its clients, since 1898. In addition, it has a long history of caring about the community and supporting the Capital Region’s quality of life. The firm has four attorneys: E. Stewart Jones, Jr., W. Farley Jones, George E. LaMarche III and Meghan Keenholts. It also employs a support staff of 12.